Curiosities of Courtship.

A proposal was once written and sent by the post in the days when letters traveled quietly at the rate of ten miles an hour on the mail coach. The anxious lover for the first week breathlessly expected the reply, but it did not come. The next week he pined, and was sleepless; still no answer. "A civil acknowledgment was his due. She was heartless and a flirt." The next week he despised her, and congratulated himself on his escape; and, when at the end of it he received his own letter back from the dead letter office, he had so completely outlived his love that he never proposed to that lady at all.

I once saw a middle-aged invalid making love to a young girl. After making great efforts to secure an opportunity of meeting her, he drew his chair close to hers, looked into her face, sighed heavily, drew his chair still closer, and while she looked at him in astonishment, and I in the distance strained my ears to hear what tender remark followed all this preparation, I heard him whisper with great emphasis: "Who is your doctor?" I need hardly say that the proposal failed which followed this well judged commencement. A more pardonable case of a man's absorption in his own pursuits was that of a very shy lover, whose one idea was of horses. He never found courage till he had persuaded the lady to go into the stable and look at his favorite horse. There he spoke, and there she answered yes. But this was natural and pardonable; a shy man may need this advantage ground, and, feeling his own inferiority in the drawing room, may yet be aware of his superior knowledge and superior power in the stable, where his horse is his throne and he himself a king.

A marriage took place, not many years ago, in the great world, where the two lovers (long attached, but separated by the desire of their parents) met under the archway while each was taking refuge in London from a sudden shower of rain. Neither of them had the least idea of the neighborhood of the other, when the sudden meeting occurred which decided the course of their future lives. In another case the engagement was broken off on account of limited means, and the gentleman went abroad. Returning after some years' absence, he arrived late on the railway platform, and rushed into the first carriage he reached, just as the train was in motion. In it he found (with her mother) the lady he had been so long vainly endeavoring to forget, and the meeting ended in one of the happiest marriages.

Hans Anderson gives, in one of his books, an amusing account of a young man, newly appointed to some official position in the Court of Copenhagen, ordering his court dress in a great haste, that he might be present at a ball where he meant to declare his attachment to a beautiful girl whom he had long loved. All went smoothly, and he was on the point of proposing, nay, had spoken a few preliminary words, when, when a button gave way on the hastily made court dress. The over rushed abruptly away, and the lady, hurt at his unlooked for departure, made an engagement for the sleighing party next day, where she received and accepted the offer of another lover.

To us love, as well as life, often hangs upon a thread. Always secure your retreat in love as in war. This is a precaution never to be neglected. Mr. A. a brother to the late Lord Z whose proud and haughty temper was proverbial, proposed to a lady in Portman Square Gardens. After being refused, the rejected lover turned away from her in great indignation, but finding the gates locked, was obliged to return to the lady to petition for the key. Another case still more trying was that of a gentleman traveling in North America, who, after being hospitably received in a house of an officer high in command there, proposed to the host's daughter the evening before his intended departure, and was refused. A deep fall of snow came in the night; the roads became impassable; and the poor man, to his unspeakable mortification, was detained for a week in the house with the lady who had refused him.

A MODEL WOMAN—"Did you not say, Ella, that Mr. A. is poor?"
"Yes, he has only 11s profession."
"Will your uncle favor his suit?"
"No, and I expect nothing from him."
"Then, Ella, you will have to resign fashion ble society."
"No matter, I shall see more of Fred."
"You must give up expensive dress."
"O, Fred admires simplicity."
"You cannot keep a carriage."
"But we can have delightful walks."
"You must live in a small house and furnish it plainly."
"Yes, for elegant furniture would be out of place in a cottage."
"You will have to cover your floor with thin carpets."
"Then I shall hear his steps sooner."

CALIFORNIA REBELS—Rufus Shoemaker formerly of Nevada, editor of the Grass Valley National, and now in the Confederate army, writes to George D. Roberts of Grass Valley from Port Gibson, Miss., March 12th, 1864, which letter is published in the Grass Valley National, and from it we learn the following: Shoemaker was on Van Dorn's staff, but is now out of the service. He says the service is hard. He says: "War is hell. I speak seriously when I say it; and when this conflict ends I intend to join some peace society and 'swear off' from all bellicose thoughts or actions." * * * You remember this rich and prosperous country—it is a waste and desolation now. The fields which once were white with cotton or yellow with grain, are now fenceless and barren. Negroes have left their owners, and the stocks of hogs and horned cattle have all been killed or driven off; making rich men poor, and putting the poor on the shortest rations, or as you of California would say, "d--d thin grub." I have heard of no cases of starvation yet, and by helping one another the people seem to live.

Of Californians he says: Ned Sanders (of Sacramento) was Major in Van Dorn's cavalry; Phil Moore (formerly Speaker of the Assembly) was a private in a Virginia regiment; Harry I. Thornton (formerly Senator from Sierra) was assistant Adjutant General on Bragg's staff; Sam Brooks (formerly State Controller) was with Cheatham; Horace Higby (formerly Surveyor General) was a major and commissary; John T. Crenshaw (formerly in the Legislature from Nevada) was killed at Vicksburg; John McCoy (formerly Assessor of Nevada) was Lieutenant of cavalry; Judge Terry was in Texas; Nod Stonehill (formerly saloon keeper in Grass Valley) was in Texas on Gen Kimmell's staff; W. H. Graham and J. K. Barry (formerly of Nevada county) are also Lieutenants in cavalry. On the whole Shoemaker seems not delighted with his lot, and looks forward with hope to the time when he can return to this State. He says nothing about the South conquering. Evidently he thinks the conquering is all on the other side.—Bee.

A FEMALE VAMPIRE—There is a young married woman in the city of St. Louis, a native of the Canton of Berne, Switzerland, who is afflicted with a disease which she calls "a dancing of the heart," and which the physicians pronounce incurable. She has a female friend who was afflicted with a similar disease, and was cured by tying around her neck a piece of rope that had been used in hanging a criminal. The lady with the "dancing heart" firmly believes that she can be cured by drinking a few drops of the blood of a man who has been executed in a similar manner. Her name is Elizabeth Mund, and she is twenty three years of age, and has been the mother of three children, none of whom survive. She has made numerous applications at the jail to inquire when there would be an execution, and as there has been no case of capital punishment at that institution for several months, her desire for human blood has not been gratified. On the 18th of March, Mrs. Mund came in with a smiling countenance, and inquired when the execution would take place. She heard that John Abshire, sentenced by a court martial to be hung by the neck, was to be executed in the jail yard on the 18th of March, as it was stated in the papers. The execution of the sentence, however, was suspended until application could be made to the President for a commutation to imprisonment for life, and on being informed that the man was not to be hung, Mrs. Mund appeared to be greatly disappointed, and chagrined. Captain Bishop cheered her drooping spirits, however, by telling her, in the smoothest German he could command, that on the 15th April a man would be hung by the neck until "dead, dead, dead," and that she might then appear and obtain a dose of the blood of a valentine Hansen, the murderer, provided Governor Hall did not pardon or respite the criminal, and the physician would allow her to extract the curative fluid. With this pleasing assurance, Mrs. Mund took her departure, greatly consoled with the hope that her heart would soon dance its last quadrille, in consequence of the magical power of a few drops of Hansen's blood. This is a curious case of modern superstition.

How a Rich Convict PASSES HIS TIME IN AUSTRALIA—Every one will remember the celebrated case of Sir Dean Paul, the fraudulent London banker. A recent copy of the Madras Times gives some curious information concerning him. Immediately after he was sentenced to penal servitude, Lady Paul realized all the property settled upon her, and proceeded without delay to Sydney, where she purchased a beautiful seat in the suburbs. Her husband having arrived at a penal settlement in another part of Australia as one of a gang of convicts, the wife of the convict baronet applied to the Government for his services, and was permitted to employ him as her "assigned servant." We need scarcely add that, having thus released him from unpleasant restraint, she placed all the newly purchased property in his hands, and has since led a very quiet life in his company.

WHY don't you limit yourself? said a physician to an intemperate person—"I set down a stake that you will go so far and no farther."
"So I do," said the toper, "but I set it so far off that I always get drunk before I get to it."

TWO letters that spell Debt are the initials of the sentence, Don Every Body Twice; and the letters that spell Credit are the initials of the sentence, "Call Regularly Every Day—I'll trust."

CANNIBALISM—NEGROES SHOT FOR EATING THEIR CHILDREN.—A correspondent of the New York News, from Port au-Prince, says:

On the 18th March there occurred a public execution. Eight persons, negroes and negresses, were shot to death in the public square. They had been convicted of stealing, killing, cooking, and eating children. This fearful feast was held some 15 miles from this place, in the interior. Your mind will probably revert to the history of Jerusalem when starving women ate their infants. But in this case the pangs of hunger had nothing to do with the horrible deed. It was part of a religious rite, a ceremony ordained by the fetishism that prevails among the negroes of this island. This custom, it is said, was inaugurated in the time of the Emperor Souloque. An order of Obeah worship was then established that among its loathsome mysteries called for human sacrifice to avert calamity and propitiate its idols. Of course, the devilish rites are celebrated in secret, and most of the horrors that are perpetrated never came to light. In this case eight of the cannibals were detected and brought to justice. They not only sacrificed children at their hideous altars, but had gorged themselves with the flesh and blood of the victims. One of the negroes being questioned in prison, said with a leer that he children "were good, tender, fingers best part." They went to the place of execution shouting, laughing and dancing, and defying the soldiers to shoot them; for they insisted that the Obeah priests would protect them against the balls. They fell, however, at the second round, and according to the custom, the soldiers walked up to the bodies and fired a third round with the muzzle almost touching the quivering flesh. Twelve negroes have since been arrested for the same crime, and will probably undergo the same punishment, although the population, incited by the Obeah priests, threaten to prevent the execution by violence.

A PLEASANT PARTY—We find the following in the Transcript of Sunday: "A pleasant little affair came off at the Union Hotel on Friday evening. A wedding party from Marysville, consisting of W. C. Brown and George J. Bourne, and their wives, have been spending a few days there. On that occasion a number of ladies and gentlemen called upon them, music was procured, and the time passed merrily in dancing and singing, until a late hour. All who were present enjoyed themselves hugely. During the evening, the Bachelor Club of Marysville, of which these gentlemen were once honored members, sent up the following expression of grief for the loss of their associates. The members of the Club have our sympathies—the happy pairs don't need them. Read the letter, it speaks for the bachelors:

MARYSVILLE, APRIL 28, 1864.
The Marysville Bachelor Club had a called meeting last night, Brother Addington as President, Hibson and Stratton pall bearers. After a few feeling remarks from Brother Addington, the following preamble and resolutions were adopted:

WHEREAS, In the vicissitudes of an eventful life, our esteemed friends and brothers, Brown and Bourne, have seen fit to dissolve their connection with the Association, and to cast their frail barks upon the uncertain and tempestuous sea of matrimony, there y influencing by their example others of the fraternity to commit the acts of hostility to its well being, therefore,

Resolved, That while we recognize in the event an illustration of the potent influence of female allurements, we extend to our erring brothers our condolence sympathy in their affliction; hoping their ways may be ways of pleasantness, and all their paths the flowery path of peace.
Resolved, That in the beginning, even so now, henceforth and forevermore, it was ever thus:
Resolved, That the members of this Club wear the usual insignia of mourning and refuse to be comforted.
After singing very feelingly "Auld Land Syne," the Club retired to recess.

ADDINGTON,
CHAIRMAN.

THE MARIPOSA ESTATE—Fremont's Mariposa estate is as prolific of lawsuits as a sandbank of fleas, and periodically during the past six years, suits have been getting hold of the rich mines which are known to abound on the estate. The last one has just been commenced in the District Court, and is for an amount of money which would make handsome fortunes for a large number of poor men. In 1858, John C. Fremont, being hard up for capital with which to develop his mines, issued three hundred bonds for one thousand dollars each; the bonds bearing interest at the rate of ten per cent. In order to make the bonds salable, a mortgage was made upon the estate to secure their payment. The bonds were taken up, and Messrs. J. J. Digwell, F. Haven, and T. W. Pierce, of the city of Boston, appointed trustees of the estate, to secure the payment of the principle and interest of the bonds. The trustees, by power invested in them, appointed Maurice Ketchum, J. W. Pryor and George Opdyke their successors, who finding that neither the principal nor interest of the bonds have been paid, have instituted suit in the Fourth District Court against Fremont for the sum of five hundred and seventy seven thousand dollars, with interest at the rate of ten per cent., and a decree of foreclosure of the mortgage.—S. F. Call.

"OH, MY PROPHETIC SOUL, MY UNCLE!"—It seems that Brother Jonathan is in a strengthened circumstances. The last few pieces of family plate have been "popped" by Mr. Chas., and we greatly fear the heirs of the worthy Jonathan will never be able to redeem them.

Yet I'd rather have a guinea than a pound.

A MODEST looking young lady coming one day into the Rooms of Bath, when Nash was the master of the ceremonies, he attempted to confuse and put her to the blush by his effrontery. "Well miss," said he, "you have just come from school I suppose, and I dare say you have read the Bible; pray can you tell me what was Tobit's dog's name?" "Nash, Sir," replied she, "and a saucy dog he was."

"FACTS are stubborn things," said a lawyer to a female witness under examination. "Yes, Sir," said the witness, "and so are women; and if you can get any thing out of me, just let me know it." "You'll be committed for contempt," said the lawyer. "Very well," said the witness, "I shall suffer justly, for I feel the utmost contempt for every lawyer present."

HEAVY SALE OF OIL LANDS—In the Venango (Pa.) oil region an immense amount of land has been sold recently. The Parker farm was a bid for $100,000; Frank farm for $150,000; King farm for $85,000; Noble and Delamater well and territory for $300,000; Elbert farm for $200,000. Deitzel & Ewing have sold the Hays farm for $600,000, each, the original purchase being $5,000.

AN ADVENTURE IN MEXICO—"The Pecari, or Mexican Pig, is a very dangerous animal. There is a story related of a French traveler who climbed up a tree to escape a drove of them; but the creatures remained around the tree until the fugitive dropped down from exhaustion, and very soon there was nothing of him left but the first letters of his name, which were—"

"WIFE, I am to live but a few hours, at most—I shall soon be in heaven."
"You! you'll never be any nearer than you are now, you old brute! You'd look well stuck up in Heaven—I think I see you now."
"Dolphus, you do plus," hoarsely growled the old man, "bring me my case, and let me larrap the old trottoir, once more before I die!"

A COUNTRY editor living on the line of a railroad, sent to the superintendent of the road for a pass for himself and wife, and added, "please embrace my wife." The superintendent returned a pass to the editor, but declined the proposed honor.

HANDY—A Saloon keeper in Virginia City has the following mysterious inscription conspicuously placed on the wall over his row of bottles:

WHAT he to the police
U. O.

WHO KNOWS—The Alta says "the catching of germs once saved Rome." Perhaps the editorials of the "Daily" press may save the Union.

HAPPY—a child with a wide smile, happy on a Christmas—two happy walking by moonlight, and a boy making "cider" then "arrows."
During the war there has been dear Bull Run and many bully runs.

OFFICIAL COUNTY PAPER.

SATURDAY, MAY, 26th, 1864.

PREACHING.—Rev. J. E. Barnes will preach in this place to-morrow at 11 A. M. and 8 P. M. All are invited to attend.

SANTA ANNA, having returned to Mexico, has issued an address yielding obedience to the French authority.

TOTAL European immigration to the United States since 1824—a period of forty years, amount to 5,022,414 souls.

GENERAL WRIGHT, it is stated, has been ordered East. He will not leave until after his successor, McDowell, arrives here.

BEN. FOSTER of San Francisco, a printer well known to the craft throughout the State, and one of Stevenson's regiment, has been struck with paralysis.

FORTY EIGHT Indian warriors recently surrendered as prisoners to Capt. Hull, of Fort Bragg, Mendocino county, California. The Captain is subjugating the redskins in his district.

In the Fifth Collection District of this State the assessment for United States revenue purposes amounts to $6,215.94 for the quarter ending March 31. The collections amounted to $2,011.15.

THE printers of Atlanta, Georgia, having "struck" for $1.87 per 1,000 ems. the four journals published at that place have been compelled to temporarily suspend the publication of their papers. As soon as the printers quitted work, the conscript officers seized them and marched them off to camp, the "typos" thus getting "from the frying pan into the fire."

SAN FRANCISCO AND MARYSVILLE RAIL ROAD.—We find the following in a San Francisco letter in last Monday's Union.

"General Frisbie arrived in the last steamer, I have it from good authority that he has been successful in arranging for Capital with which to build his Rail Road from Vallejo to Marysville. The particulars have not yet transpired."

We hope this statement is true, for it corresponds with previous announcements from the East made while Gen. Frisbie and Mr. Polhemus, who is said to have the contract for building the road were in New York. If there is truth in this statement, we hope to have practical evidence of it at no very distant day. This is a work greatly needed and since it is demonstrated that Rail Roads can speedily be built in California, we hope this enterprise will not lag again as it has for a few years past.

QUEEN VICTORIA'S INSANITY.—The following is from the London correspondence of the Irish Times.

There are subjects about which an inveterate contributor to the Press feels delicate to write. I cannot, however, in the discharge of my duty, conceal from you that the state of her Majesty's health is such as causes anxiety to those in immediate attendance upon her. For some time past it was hoped that the Queen would have in some degree come forth from the retirement of the past two years and appear among her subjects once a year, and the hope was especially cherished by those who sought to put judicious pressure upon her believing that they were therein best consulting her Majesty's mental health. This pressure had for a time its effect, and a formal Drawing Room before Easter was to have been the happy occasion of her Majesty coming among her subjects; but no sooner had the necessary consent been obtained, than it was again withdrawn. This is the cause of the dull state of party politics, and this is the drag chain which hangs about the neck of the Conservative party. In the present state of the Queen's health there is an unwillingness to bring about any state of things which would call for a strain upon her Majesty. Night after night the Prince of Wales has been seeing company, and been taking the position of the Sovereign; but it is said that these dinner parties and receptions are given out of his limited income, and the grumblers ask if he must set the part of the Regent why is he not allowed the income of the Regent?—And this leads me to the most serious statement of all. It is mooted among the ministerial supporters that Lord Palmerston or the Chancellor of the Exchequer may surprise Great Britain some evening by standing up in the House of Commons and moving for an inquiry into the state of the nation. Members of Parliament do not whisper such topics with bated breath until they dread that the time of action has come near. I venture then, to repeat the rumor with some hesitation, but with a feeling that there can be no good in shrinking from the truth.

THE LATEST NEWS.

We take the following from the Sacramento Union.

The telegraph gives us the welcome news of decisive success in Virginia. The flank movement of Hancock's corps and the complete failure of two attempts to cut Grant's communications precipitated Lee's retreat from Spottsylvania. Hancock moved from Bowling Green directly south upon the line of the Rail Road to the North Anna, and the other corps followed Lee's retreating army on the common roads running parallel with the road. The official advices from Grant are to 3 o'clock A. M., on the 24th, at which time, Warren and Hancock, after whipping the rear guard of the enemy and taking a number of prisoners, were on the south side of North Anna river, in full pursuit. Later advices received at Washington state that the rebels had continued their retreat beyond the South Anna. The North and South Anna, the two branches of the Pamunkey, unite a few miles below the junction of the Fredericksburg and Richmond and Virginia Central Railroads. Between the South Anna and the outer defenses of Richmond the country is open and cultivated. The distance is twenty miles. Sheridan's cavalry had reached Dunkirk, east of the railroad, on the 24th. The cavalry will now be very useful in guarding Grant's line of supply. The Lieutenant General's modest report of his success is that "everything looks exceedingly favorable." In all the fights during the retreat, the enemy, being no longer behind intrenchments, were easily whipped and suffered heavily. According to the latest report of the situation, there were two probabilities for which Grant had to provide: Lee, reinforced by Beauregard, might be able to concentrate 75,000 men, and with that army deliver battle some where between the South Anna and Richmond. To beat such an army Grant would be compelled to halt and concentrate his various corps, but it would suit him better than a siege. Or, Lee might retreat within the entrenchments of the rebel Capital, rest and possibly recruit his forces and prepare for a sudden onslaught upon the investing army. Failure in that, however, would signify the loss of both the army and the city. In a week the Army of the Potomac would have entrenchments which could not be easily taken. Richmond is assumed to be provisioned for a siege, and non-combatants are said to have left. On the north and east the defenses are very strong. The work points are found on the west and south. The capture of Fort Darling would open the river to the iron clads. The failure of Beauregard in his repeated efforts to dislodge Butler now becomes important. From Turkey Bend we have intelligence that General Gilmore led an early morning reconnaissance and routed a rebel force he encountered. He discovered that at least half of Beauregard's corps had gone to reinforce Lee. Doubtless, General Butler can take care of the remainder and resume the offensive, particularly if Lee gives battle to Grant north of Richmond.

The War Department had no advices from Sherman on the 24th, the day after he was to resume his march on Atlanta, and no news from that quarter was expected for several days. The rebels might endanger the success of Sherman's campaign by a rapid retreat from Virginia and the reinforcement of Johnston; but the probability is that pride will lure them into continuing the struggle for Richmond until it is too late to save Georgia and all its stores from the grasp of Sherman. We have no dispatches of a later date than the 25th.

MEETING OF THE UNION CENTRAL COMMITTEE.—A meeting of the Union State Central Committee will be held at the Committee Rooms in this city, on the 4th June, for the purpose of calling a State Convention for the nomination of Presidential electors and election of a new committee. The published call adds: "and also, determining the manner of nominating candidates for Congress;" but this last matter may be safely left to be determined by each Congressional District for itself. As that is the true intent of the law of Congress, as it is further in accordance with the usage of older States and the popular desire in this State, and as any other plan is open to serious objection now that California is legally divided into Districts, we apprehend that the Central Committee should not do anything more with reference to the subject than to advise the calling of separate District Conventions. It clearly has no power beyond this. All but one of the County Committees in the Northern, or Third District, have agreed to unite in calling a District Convention for the purpose of nominating their own candidate, and it is undoubtedly the desire of the loyal voters of the Southern or First District, which embraces San Francisco, to imitate this action. —Bulletin.

THE FIRST ABOLITIONIST.—According to Horace Greeley's new book, Benjamin Lundy, of Belmont, Ohio, was the first Abolitionist in the United States. In 1815 he organized the "Union Humane Society" of six members. Soon after he established an anti-slavery paper called The Genius of Universal Emancipation. In 1828 he went East, and fell in with Wm. Lloyd Garrison, who readily embraced his views, and hence drew the Anti-Slavery party of the United States.

HARD TIMES.—A correspondent of the San Francisco Call, writing from Virginia City, gives a dark picture of the condition of affairs in the Territory. Times are represented to be very hard—worse than they were in 1860, during the reaction after the first speculative rush to that region. There appears to be no money in circulation, and it is almost impossible to borrow except at the most exorbitant rates of interest—from five to ten per cent. per month—rates so high that it is utterly impossible for any business to stand it.

Besides this, we see that work has been stopped on several leading mines of the Territory, and the force on others reduced. Among those on which work has been entirely stopped is the Uncle Sam, one of the leading stocks in market, where it has been selling of late for $800 per share. This mine has its mill and machinery all up, but has as yet paid nothing. Work has doubtless been stopped because of the impossibility of raising money by assessments sufficient to prosecute further operations. The same cause operates to the disadvantage of scores of other promising mines there and elsewhere.

In the Territory as well as in this State, the people are beginning to feel the bad effects of a system, the evils of which we have often pointed out, viz: overdoing the mines, and heavy shipments of treasure. Having undertaken enterprizes far beyond their financial ability to carry out successfully, the natural result of loss, and to many ruin, follows. Hundreds and thousands, who have sought the mines for the purpose of obtaining employment, find themselves disappointed and left without the means of support. They have left moderate paying employment in this State, and have found nothing elsewhere. By so doing they have injured California and themselves.

It is time for people to begin to comprehend the fact that it is much better for them to follow pursuits in California that will furnish sure, even though small profits, than to start off elsewhere in pursuit of some ignis fatuus that holds out bright and alluring promises only to deceive and betray those who trust to them. It is now being demonstrated beyond a doubt that it is utterly impossible in this State to raise the money necessary to fully develop one third of the mines our people have partially opened. Thousands of people of small means have invested their all in these mines, and from their utter inability to invest more, must inevitably lose all. The consequence will be severely felt by individuals, beside retarding the prosperity of the State. If, however, we rightly improve the lesson we have learned it will not be too costly.

THE WAR.—In reference to the campaign in Virginia, the Bulletin correspondent, says under date of April 19th: "Gen. Grant is in Washington. Great preparations are making for a series of grand and decisive battles. It is hoped that this spring campaign may be decisive. The two armies stand confronting each other, and both are magnificent in their numbers, their strength and courage. It is to be the conflict of giants, and on its result hangs in a great measure the destinies of this Republic. If Richmond cannot be taken this summer, then, in the opinion of many loyal men, it will be the capital of a recognized government. Our national debt is already a swelling total; our expenditures are immense, and as a financial problem, this war must soon reach a solution. I think I can observe among our leading men great anxiety for the result of this campaign. Washington is full of qualified loyalty, treason in the guise of Democracy, Copperhead sympathy with the rebellion.

I am making interest to get to the front, and think I will succeed. If I do I may be able to give you items of more general interest than as a stranger in Washington, I am able to gather."

A HOAX.—The following Hoax came over the wires on Sunday last;—dated Chicago May 19th.

"The New York World and Journal of Commerce published yesterday morning what purports to be a proclamation from the President appointing a day of humiliation and prayer; also, calling for 400,000 troops. A second edition of the World says: 'The World, in common with other city papers, was made the victim of a malicious hoax by some scoundrel who imitated the manifold copy of the Associated Press and sent copies to all the papers.' The Herald printed a large edition, but discovered the hoax in time to suppress it. The World and Commerce are now under seizure by the Provost Guard for publishing the document. Neither office published a paper to day. The offices of the Independent Telegraph in New York, Philadelphia and Washington are closed up, for the reason, it is supposed, that they transmitted the bogus document from Washington. Several persons were arrested and will be tried by a military tribunal for having 'treasonably attempted to give aid and comfort to the enemy. Gold, opened at eight y four, doubtless under the influence of speculation. The steamer which left at noon yesterday for Europe, in all probability took copies out, but without the announcement that it is a hoax."

THIEVES IN TUOLUMNE.—On Thursday night, May 12th, the dwelling house of James W. Marshall, in Columbia, was entered by thieves and a lot of personal and sixteen dollars in cash stolen. Several other houses were entered on the same night.

SOLDIERS VS FREEDMEN.—The pressing necessity (to which the entire coast is responding) for aid to the Sanitary Fund, occasioned by the recent destructive battles, has not stirred up the San Franciscans to make their usual display of charity in that behalf. To be sure, at the election on Tuesday they did raise $4,800 for the fund, a little more than four bits for each Union voter who visited the polls, and this is all the extra work they have done in the present emergency. But if San Francisco charity does not respond to the needs of the sick and wounded soldiers who have suffered in their country's behalf, it seems to be bubbling up in another direction, for we see that a mass meeting has been called to raise funds to aid the freed negroes. We have no disposition to dictate to San Franciscans as to the objects on which they shall bestow their charities, yet it does seem to us that until the sick and wounded soldiers are fully provided for, other objects of charity less worthy, less deserving and less suffering, should be passed over. The freed negroes have been used to labor; the demand for labor in the East is great, and if their freedom is not to be a curse to themselves and to the country, they should be taught to labor for their own subsistence. This traveling around the country begging means for the support not only tends to encourage them in idleness, but will, if pursued too far, render the idea of universal emancipation extremely distasteful to the minds of the people. Not only this, it is absorbing money which we are in duty bound to bestow on other objects. —Bea.

THAT SWORD.—A correspondent of the Union says: The sword so warmly contested for by the friends of rival Generals at the military Fair has fallen at last to General Grant. For a long while the other candidates have fallen in the background, and McClellan and Grant have remained alone upon the field. "Little Mac" is such a favorite that it was generally supposed that the sword would become his as a matter of course; but on the last evening of the Fair an envelope arrived containing a check for ten thousand dollars, requesting the same number of votes to be recorded for ten loyal men of New York, who were anxious to uphold Grant; and the fate of the sword was sealed; Ulysses S. Grant was victor. It appears that the result of the affair was so displeasing to some present that what an Irishman would call "a regular shindy" ensued inevitably, and was only averted by the opportune arrival of the drum corps, escorted by a posse of police, who divided the crowd, drowned their voices and closed the Fair to the public. Grant's majority was 15,782.

MARRIED.

DIED.

At Gacheville, May 23rd, Amanda, infant daughter of Joseph and Elizabeth Wynnam, age 2 years and 26 days.

Calm be thy rest dear babe, In thy lonely forest grave, Thou art happy, yes thrice happy For Jesus did thee save.

The world thou hast forsaken, Is one of toil and pain, Thou hast left thy loving parents, A better world to gain.

We miss thee dear, we miss thee, But cannot call thee back; We remember how we kissed thee, And we are thy little track.

Thou art gone, forever gone, And never to return, Will you tell our friends above, That we will soon have come?

Remember thy dear Father, When at thy coffin bowed, An I deeply sorrow stricken, He made his solemn vow.

Remember thy good mother, On whose bosom thou hast lain, And tell the happy souls above, She lies in Jesus name.

Remember loving sisters, And brothers good and true, They feel their sad departure, Of one so sweet as you.

But time will soon have fled, And death will come a-king, And we'll all be with the dead, But hope to join thy song.

Then with the blessed Saviour Above this world of strife, We'll have our little angel, And live eternal life.

Near Knight's Landing, May 23rd, Lulu, daughter of Joseph and Matilda Armstrong, aged one year 10 months and 29 days. Dearest Lulu thou hast left us, Hear thy loss we deeply feel; But 'tis God that hath bereft us, He can all our sorrow heal.

Peaceful be thy silent slumber, Peaceful in the grave so low; Though no more we will find our number, Though no more our songs shall know.

Yet again we hope to meet thee, When the day of life is fled; Then in heaven with joy to greet thee, Where no farewell tear is shed.

At Washington, Yolo county, William Williams, aged 37 years, a native of Wales.

EXECUTION OF WILLIAM WILLIAMS FOR MURDER.—On Friday the 20th instant was the day set for the hanging of Wm. Williams who was tried and convicted twice, in Sacramento and Yolo Counties, for the murder of A. Blanchard his partner. We take the following from the Union 21st.

Williams was taken from the Sacramento jail at twelve o'clock noon in a carriage, accompanied by his priest, Sheriff McClatchy, of Sacramento, and Sheriff C. H. Gray, of Yolo, who conducted the execution. He seemed greatly agitated when first taken out and placed in the hack, but received a crucifix from one of the priests, and spend his time during the entire ride in praying and kissing the cross. Only once, in coming in sight of the gallows, he looked up with a shudder, but immediately resumed his devotions. On reaching the gallows he walked in and up the steps to the gallows with an appearance of firmness, though his features were overspread with a bluish pallor, and his eyes were haggard and sunken. Occasional tremors shook his limbs for a moment, but were quickly repressed. His voice seemed to have failed him, for he only spoke to those about him in whispers. Around a railing which surrounded the scaffold were assembled from 70 to 100 persons, who had been invited by Sheriff Gray to witness the execution, and there was a considerable crowd on side, some of whom endeavored to get a view within the enclosure by climbing the adjoining trees. The condemned man walked within the railing accompanied by the priests and the Sheriff and his assistants, looked about him, and drew out a paper which he handed to Father Ryan. The latter said: "He has only a few words to say, and begs me to read them to you." He says: "I regret most sincerely any act of mine by which I have offended God or given scandal to my neighbor. I beg pardon of God for all my sins. I cannot express how grateful I am for his abundant mercies to me. I owe all to the passion, the sufferings and the death of Jesus Christ. I die in the faith of the Holy Roman Catholic Church. I forgive from my heart every one. I ask your prayers. I wish to offer my death and the ignominy of it in union with the ignominious death of my Redeemer, in atonement for my sins. May Jesus have mercy on my soul. Next to God and the intercession of his Blessed Mother, I owe my gratitude to Rev. Fathers Gallagher and Ryan, and to the Sisters of Mercy. God will give them their reward." After the reading of this paper, Williams knelt, by direction of Father Ryan and the latter read a long prayer in his behalf, to which he appeared to pay strict attention. He then rose and fervently kissed the crucifix which Father Ryan presented to his lips, at the same time hurriedly whispering a few words seemingly of encouragement to his son. His arms were now tied with a cord, and one of the officers brought forward a white shroud and black cap, at sight of which his features assumed for an instant a terrible expression of dread and horror. He assisted, however, in drawing on the shroud and placed himself as directed beneath the same. Next his feet were tied, then the black cap was drawn over his face, shutting out sunlight forever. The rope was carefully affixed about his neck, his lips and the while moving as if in prayer, and then, at twelve minutes before one o'clock with a horrid thud, the trap door fell and Williams seemed to be a living man. After he fell he once raised his knees slightly and then became motionless. His neck was broken by the fall—a distance of eight or nine feet—so that his death must have been almost instantaneous. Dr. Harkness and Taylor, who were in attendance, went down stairs immediately, but found no pulse at all. After hanging precisely twenty minutes the dead body was lowered into a pine coffin provided for the purpose and immediately brought to the city and delivered to Joseph A. Gombosi, undertaker, for interment. And so the majesty of the law was vindicated. It was reported yesterday that Williams had recently admitted the killing of Blanchard, stating that he only intended to whip him, but we do not learn that there was any good foundation for the statement, and rather incline to the opinion that this subject of his guilt he "died and made no sign."

Last words.

He knelt beside her dying bed;
"Speak, daughter, speak!" the old man said
And she, "Tis dark; where is he—where?
I fain would smooth his wavy hair."
"O leave me not, my child," he said;
And she, "I know, when I am dead,
You'll let him for a little space
Gaze on me still and shrouded face."
"Child, he is here," the father said.
Her feeble arms she open spread,
Her lips to his she strove to press,
And clasp'd him in a mute caress.
"Forgive!" the father cried, "Forgive!
To be the wife wilt thou not live?"
"I do forgive, and bless!" she said,
Her eyelids fluttered, she was dead!
Poor lover! poorer father! he
Through life that thin white face will see.

Humors of the Day.

LITTLE girls believe in a man in the moon; young ladies in a man in the honey-moon.

JONES thinks that, instead of giving credit to whom credit is due, the cash had better be paid.

WHY is a young lady like a till of exchange? Because she ought to be "settled" when she arrives at maturity.

"What a bird he is, sure!" said Patrick of a skunk; "and he perfumes like a dandy, be japers."

An inquisitive priest asked a young lady her name at the confessional, and she answered, "Father my name is not a sin."

BRIGHAM YOUNG is represented as the greatest hog in the country. He has more "spare ribs" than any other member of the porcine race.

PEOPLE always express a great deal of sympathy for women who are unhappily married—but how about those who are unhappily single.

"I'm afraid you'll forget me wife, while I'm away," said a brave officer. "Never fear, my dear, the longer you are away, the better I shall like you."

Friends of the day are like a melon. Why? Because you may find a dozen melons try before you can find one that's fit to eat; And a true friend is just as rare a treat.

"O, miss," said a lovesick swain, "if I were a star, how bright I would shine for you."
"Well," said she, "you may be, for you can't shine here."

WE lately met a grammarian says a California paper, who has just made a tour through the mines, conjugating, or rather conjugating, thus—"Positive, mine; comparative, miner; superlative, minus."

Oh! you gray headed bachelor editors, don't you wish some sweet miss would fall in love with you? — Mendocino Herald.

Pitch in feller. You are emptying the old song. "The baboon courted the monkey's sister." — Pute.

SOME maiden ladies made soldiers' shirts about a foot too short, having no pattern to go by, and but little information—A wag wrote on their bundle:—
Like a man without a wife,
Like a ship without a sail,
The oddest thing in life
Is a shirt without a—proper length.

At a country school examination the following word was addressed to a Dull Boy:

Teacher—What does hair spell?
Dull Boy—Don't know.
Teacher—What have you on your head?
Boy—Don't know. Something that bites.

A COUNTRY youth having an uncle living in town, resolved to pay him a visit. He accordingly started off one morning, and arrived at his uncle's house just as supper was ready. Being very hungry, from his long walk, he no sooner got seated at the table than he commenced a furious onslaught on the eatables, at right and left.

"Hold on, sir," said the uncle, who was a pious man, "we always say something here before we eat."
"Say what you've a mind to," answered the boy, between two mouthfuls, "you can't turn my stomach!"

POPPING THE QUESTION.—One evening, as I was sitting by Hetty, and had worked myself up to the sticking point, sez I, "Hetty, if a feller was to ask you to marry him, what would you say?" Then she laughed, and sez she, "That would depend on who asked me." Then sez I, "Suppose it was Ned Willis?" Sez she, "I'd tell Ned Willis, but not you." That kinder staggered me; but I was to cute to lose the opportunity, and so sez I again, "Suppose it was me?" And then you order her pout up her lip, and sez she, I don't take no supposes." Well now, you see there was nothin' for me to do but touch the gun off. So bang it went. Sez I, "Lor, Hetty, it's me." Won't you say yes?" And then there was such a hullabaloo in my head, I don't exactly what tuk place, but I thought I heard a yes whisperin' somewhere out of the skirmish.

PATENT COMBINED GANG PLOW,

We have purchased the right this great labor-saving implement for the State of California.

With this combined Machine one man, with six horses, can do the work of three twelve inch plows, besides sowing the grain, and harrowing it in as he proceeds, thus finishing his work in the best manner possible, without being obliged to travel over the plowed ground. This Machine has been very thoroughly tested. It is made very substantially, is not liable to get out of order, and being on large truck wheels, the Gang Plow, Seed Sower and Harrow, runs lighter than three plows would, cutting the same amount of land.

We are desirous of having these plows generally introduced throughout the State, and are therefore prepared to offer very favorable inducements to farmers and the trade.
